GROCERIES---Fighting the Food Trust

The relentless war we are waging on Food Trust prices is winning over thousands of new customers for Henry Siegel Co.'s magnificent grocery on the fifth floor. Wherever Mr. Siegel has a store and he has four of the largest in the world, there you will find the finest grocery in the town where that particular store is located. It is not in a cheap ordinary grocery that these remarkable specials at fighting prices are being offered, but in New England's largest and finest pure food market, where the quality, purity and wholesomeness of everything is absolutely guaranteed. Letters from all parts of the country are coming in every day commending us for the low prices we are maintaining in the face of the trust's herculean efforts to advance prices out of the reach of the public.

ANNA HELD HAS NOW REACHED

"THE LIMIT"

The distinctive Anna Held show is completely out done in kind by "The Parisian Model," which opened at the Colonial last night. The musical comedy makes repeated sensational pronouncements in search of the traditional "limit" and if that elusive and retreating imaginary stage locality isn't discovered and thoroughly explored, no blame can be laid at the feet of a daring and active company of explorers.

or more of them, are an attraction. Whether the various stages of undress of a big and beautiful company of show girls vie with the star's attractiveness is also a question of the view-point of the observer. Certainly it is both a triumph of color, light and brilliancy enough to make folks sit up and take notice.

The "Carolina Model" music is all in half-dressed staccato songs. It's plot is in that is the rule from dancer to singer. "I'm a little bit of a dancer myself," says the 25-year-old singer, "but I don't sing intuitively. Notably, 'I Can't Make My Eyes Be Happy' and 'Won't You Be My Temporary Bear.' Oris Mariani's comedy is a little more subtle, but she's got a lot of makeup rather than spontaneity or clever lines. In distinct contrast to the stiltedness of much of the production is the singing of Henri Leoni. The skating scene in the final act is one of the most artistic pieces of musical comedy I've ever staged anywhere. As a whole the show borders on the vulgar and, if given at a burlesque house, would cause talk."

FISKE O'HARA GETS WARM APPLAUSE

Fiske O'Hara, the three-voiced Irish tenor, was greeted last evening with applause that seemed to shake the houses when he appeared in one of Charles E. Blaney's successes, "Don O'Hara," a romantic comedy-drama in four acts. Mr. O'Hara portrayed the life of a poor Irish lad who had fallen in love with a wealthy widow by whom it is rejected. Having some talent as a sculptor, he leaves home and returns as one of Ireland's greatest sculptors and wins back the girl of his choice. His loyalty to his people is brought

EAGLE GETS OVER $2000

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—Through the generosity of the Chicago National League club's officials each one of the nine eligible for the world's series, drew over $2000 for his share.

The check of the National Commission, signed by John H. Bruce, secretary, for the winner's percentage of the sale receipts of the games was received by Manager Chance. The exact amount was $22,000. As soon as this was received President Murphy wrote a check out to the order of Frank L. Chance for $12,000, making $45,000 for the Cubs to split up among them.

There were twenty-nine managers on the list of eligible bidders to the National Commission, and all of these men came to the sale of the money. McCormick, manager of the club, was on that list, and got his share as well as the players themselves. In addition to these, Treasurer Charles E. Smith, of the Cubs, also got his share, and drew down a portion of the money. The total amount of money received more than $2000 as his share for the victory over the Detroit Tigers in this series.

SWEDES HERE WOULD BUILD BOAT

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—There are seventy registered yacht clubs in Sweden, with an average membership of about 200. The first in importance is the Royal Swedish Yacht Club, with a membership of 2,000, and the next the Royal Yacht Club of Gothenburg, with 2,400 members.

Royal Swedish Yacht Club has three or four nations, the most important of which is Sandhamn, on the Baltic, a matter of two or three hours' ride from Stockholm, where the club's principal regatta and meetings are held. This is an interesting yachting centre and is visited by many prominent members of the sport during the racing and cruising season.

Mr. Axel Josephson of this city, who has taken an active part in building the Swedish Club in challenge for the American Cup, is of the opinion that the Swedish yachts would be better equipped than those of the United States, and that the Swedish yachts would be better equipped than those of the United States, and that the Swedish yachts would be better equipped than those of the United States.

There was nothing new at the New York Yacht Club last night, when the purpose of the meeting was to elect a new secretary. The secretary had not received approval from the club members.

GARDNER MAY MEET MEMSIC

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—The prohibition is that Jimmy Gardner will be the one selected to fight George Memsic for the lightweight championship title. Mark Rasmussen, who is here from the Chicago boxing scene, is looking for a fight with Gardner, but the weight limit of the fight is not yet decided.

Gardner also talks of fighting Young Kitchell, but the latter has been injured. Gardner also talks of fighting Young Kitchell, but the latter has been injured. Gardner also talks of fighting Young Kitchell, but the latter has been injured.
